

SHOW ANGEWANDTE 17 on 13 June at 6 pm and 8.30 pmThis year highly interesting and innovative graduate collections

The Show Angewandte 17 where students and graduates of the fashion design class at the University of Applied Arts Vienna are presenting their latest collections, promises to be highly interesting and innovative: Eight graduates with their diploma collections will care for the highlights of the annual fashion show: Florian Buder, Dorothee Ganzinger, Attila Lajos, Kohei Nishi, Mila Petrova, Federico Protto, Noushin Redjaian und Agnes Varnai. Attila Lajos for example could already draw attention to his design during his fashion studies at the Angewandte and could convince at international fashion competitions as the International Talent Support (ITS).

High profile jury at Show Angewandte 17

The works of the graduates 2016/17 of the fashion department are going to be evaluated by a high profile jury. Under the management of professor Hussein Chalayan the journalists and fashion experts Christina Binkley (Los Angeles, USA) and Isabelle Kountoure (London, GB), filmmaker Emil Donkov (Vienna), photographer Lukas Gansterer (Vienna) and fashion editor Sabina Schreder (New York, USA) are going to give their expert's judgement.

Scholarship and awards in both shows

Within the framework of the Show Angewandte 17 the Fred-Adlmüller-Scholarship, the Rondo Fashion Award with friendly promotion of Wien Mitte The Mall and the Indie Magazine Award will be presented and awarded. The Adlmüller-Scholarship is endowed with Euro 2700,-, the Rondo Fashion Award with friendly promotion of Wien Mitte The Mall with Euro 3000,- and the publishing of the collection at "Der Standard Rondo". The Indie Magazine Award also contains the publishing of the winning-collection.

Two equivalent shows at the baroque Orangerie Schönbrunn

Since the Show Angewandte has been completely sold out for years there will be two equivalent shows on the 13th of June: at 6 pm and at 8.30 pm. The magnificent and famous baroque building from the 18th century will give this years' fashion show an unique atmosphere and a surprisingly new character.
